Ian Patrick Levia

Ian Levia has been involved in the hip hop dance community for over three decades he is the person accredited with spreading Hip Hop dance throughout the Caribbean with his infectious brand of dance and dance instruction.*

Ian started teaching Hip Hop dance in Trinidad and Tobago in various gyms (studios) and got his first international break when he was invited to teach in Brazil. While teaching in Brazil a representative from the Spanish community invited Ian to teach at a huge convention in Spain, this lead to him teaching and judging in several countries in Europe.

Never satisfied with his knowledge in the art form Ian began studying and researching the true meaning of Hip Hop and the evolution of Ian Levia the “educator” began.

In 2000 when Hip Hop International was founded Ian was one of its pioneering members and became the HHI Director for Trinidad and Tobago literally opening the doors for dancers and choreographers in the same way the door was opened for him more than a decade before.

In 2004 Ian was appointed the Technical Director of Hip Hop international and began to put all his years of teaching and studying to global use.

Ian has taught, developed and implemented several dance programs and curriculums around the world and was featured on the cover of the very popular Finnish magazine for the work he did at one of their largest collages.

He was teaching on television for over ten years and although very modest his face is well known in the islands.
